

AMERICAN HENLEY MAY 26; CHILDS CUP APR. 28

BOTH REGATTAS SET FOR PHILADELPHIA

Rowing Association Arranges Dates to Avoid Conflict in Spring.

PROGRAM NOT COMPLETE

Early Opening of Season Will Make Colleges Rush Crew Training.

By SAMUEL J. BROOKMAN.

There was a concerted effort on the part of the delegates to the annual meeting of the American Rowing Association at the Harvard Club yesterday to draw up a varsity crew schedule for next spring that will see date conflicts reduced to a minimum. The association frowned on the practice of colleges arranging conflicting regattas. The delegates felt the time had arrived for all hands to work together to avoid scrambling of dates, and it was with that idea foremost that a tentative schedule was drawn up.

The complete list is not ready for publication, but the dates for the annual American Henley and the Childs cup races were announced as May 26 and April 28, respectively. Both these events will be rowed on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia.

The Childs cup date is of especial interest because it is just two weeks earlier than the usual day for this three cornered regatta, in which Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania are the contestants. It was held on May 13 on Lake Carnegie, Princeton, last spring and the second Saturday in May the year before. No doubt the April date for the Childs Cup race next spring was prompted by a desire to avoid the congestion of May regattas; it was one of the steps in the direction of a more evenly distributed schedule.

Will Rush Crew Development.

Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania coaches will have to rush the development of their varsity crews as they never did before to have the oarsmen rowing in satisfactory form by the day of the Childs cup event. Everybody concerned will be praying for an early spring. Pennsylvania, which usually finds it possible to start outdoor practice a week or two ahead of the rival colleges, will be in a hurry to get the April Childs cup date may mean a shift in the date for the annual Penn-Yale regatta. Yale has expressed dissatisfaction with an early April date for a dual regatta and the change in the Childs cup event may permit a May date for the dual race between the varsities and junior varsities of Yale and Quakers. The Childs cup race at Princeton, by the way, proved to be one of the best contested of the season last spring. After a sensational tussle the Tiger crew beat the Columbia eight by the scant margin of a foot, with Penn third.

The Henley date, May 26, is the usual one—the last Saturday in May. There was considerable talk last spring of the advisability of enlarging the Henley regatta into a three day affair in which every amateur club and every college actively engaged in rowing would be asked to compete. The delegates discussed the project enthusiastically, but felt that the time was not yet ripe for any regatta of the size proposed. They considered it advisable to acquaint everybody with the plan first, to feel the pulse of the amateur and college rowing authorities rather than launch a three day event without sufficient assurance of necessary support. It was considered entirely possible that by 1924 the three day Henley would be a fact.

Some of Races in View.
Besides the dual cup event, the varsity regatta, dual and three cornered that are likely to be held in the East next spring will include Yale-Penn, Yale-Princeton-Cornell, Penn-Harvard, Navy-Syracuse, Navy-Harvard-Princeton, Columbia-Yale, Columbia-M. I. T., Harvard-Cornell, Harvard-M. I. T., Yale-Harvard, as well as the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson. The American Rowing Association yesterday selected Thomas E. Beach of Pennsylvania, chairman; William E. Curtis of Yale, vice-chairman; Rudolph Ranch of Princeton, treasurer, and John Arthur Brown of Pennsylvania, secretary. Others present at the meeting were Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, the Princeton rowing coach; Henry B. Thompson of Princeton; Roneyberry, graduate manager of Cornell; at Cornell, R. E. Thurston of Syracuse, Morton G. Bogus, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association; John Goetschius of Yale, Dr. R. Heber Howe, Clement B. Wood and Sheridon Logan of Harvard and Commander Rockwell of the navy.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Heroes of yesterday, where are you today?
Back on the jobs you had ere you went away;
Out where the busy world lacks the time to grieve,
Seeking work a man can do, with an empty sleeve;
Still in the hospitals, weary, sick of soul,
Till Death, who passed you by, comes to make you whole;
Resting in narrow beds, where the women weep,
Spreading flowers over you, as you lie asleep.
Rally your ranks again, all who journeyed back;
Polish the gleaming steel, fasten on the pack;
March past the watching crowds, and they will cheer
As when you went away—one day a year.

The first game ever played by Princeton and Harvard under Rugby rules was at Cambridge, on April 28, 1877. It was won by the Crimson. In this game there were fifteen players on a side. The first game in which sides consisted of two elevens was contested at the Polo Grounds on November 13, 1880, and the Tigers were victorious. It was not until November 18, 1882, that the two rivals met under anything approaching the modern rules. There was considerable controversy as to the scoring rules and Princeton claimed a tie, but the referee, Mr. Watson of Yale, awarded the game to the Crimson. It really was this game which led to the system of scoring by points. In the first battle under the point system, played in 1882, Alex Moffat kicked four goals from the field and Princeton won by a score of 26 to 7. In this game Harvard used the double pass, so it may be seen that even at that time the Crimson attack was based somewhat on deception. The only trouble was that it didn't deceive in the manner which it does since being perfected by Percy Hargrave.

There probably never was a more skillful kicker than Alex Moffat. We are told that he could kick equally well with either foot, whereas to-day we do not know of a man who can kick equally well with either hand, and it is hard to find a back who can run equally well around either end.

President Charles Ebbe of the Brooklyn Baseball Club is going to Europe. It is doubtful whether he will find any baseball players over there, but he may come back with a mascot.

Neither do we see why he should go over in search of war relics. He has had some relics in his employ for some time.

The Yankees are said to be looking for a couple of left handed pitchers. They always have had a good supply of left handed thinkers.

In this world everybody is anxious to have you tell the truth, so long as you don't tell it about them.

Some players who endeavor to pass the pigskin really are better fitted for jobs passing the pork.

The Washington and Jefferson-Lafayette game drew over 31,000 paid admissions at the Polo Grounds. We doubt whether there are 1,000 graduates of the two institutions in New York. All of which goes to show that in these days a crowd will really turn out for a good football game.

A New York stoker knocked out the heavyweight champion of Germany. Another triumph for Old King Coal!

1924 International Paris Meet Will Get Under Way January 20.

Busy Indoor Tennis Season Ahead for Heights Casino

Heights Casino, which is to open its indoor tennis season next Tuesday with an exhibition match in which two of the prominent players will be engaged, has just completed substantial improvements in its tennis and squash courts. A balcony that will seat several hundred has been erected on one length of the court wall on the main floor, while on the squash floor two of the four courts have been enlarged and refinished to conform with regulation standards. The new balcony has been made for a squash gallery.

The club is arranging a long program of tennis events for the indoor season, including dual meets with the rival local club teams and intercity contests with teams of Boston and possibly Philadelphia. The annual women's invitation event, which Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory has won five times, will again be a feature.

Meadow Brook Cup Race.

The twenty-fourth annual race for the Meadow Brook cup will take place tomorrow at Jericho, L. I., under the auspices of the Meadow Brook Steeplechase Association. Sixteen horses have been entered and twelve starters are expected. All will be ridden by amateurs over a course laid out on the country places of Middleton S. Burrill and H. S. Underhill. Two races are to be run on the flat by local horses after the cup race has been decided.

JOCK HUTCHISON, Former American Holder of the British Open Golf Championship ON THE LAW OF THE LINKS

By Jock Hutchison

ANSWER TO THE PROBLEM OF FOURSOMES AND TWOSOMES.

F. J. E. The foursome playing ahead of your twosome would have no right to take any time to look for a ball. In this case the twosome should have played through the foursome without an invitation to do so, as it is a breach of golf etiquette for their part not to ask the players behind to come through in case of a lost ball.

PROBLEM OF HITTING A CADDIE.

"While playing a round of golf the other day in a foursome, or in other words a four ball match, my ball hit one of the caddies.

"As it happened to be my partner's caddie, the claim was made by our opponents that we lost the hole.

"I claimed I was out of the contest and that my partner could not be penalized. Was I right?

HERALD WILL RADIO FOOTBALL REPORTS

W. O. McGeehan to Broadcast Leading Games, Beginning With Princeton-Harvard.

There's another treat in store for the vast army of radio fans interested in sport. Beginning with the Princeton-Harvard game in the Harvard stadium to-morrow, THE NEW YORK HERALD will broadcast a radio report of the feature football tussles that remain to be played on successive Saturdays this month. There will be a direct wire from the football arena to the General Electric Company's powerful WGY radio station in Schenectady, and the details of the grueling tussle will be sent without any loss of time over a 400 meter wave length to every corner of the country.

W. O. McGeehan, sporting editor of THE NEW YORK HERALD, whose graphic descriptions of the world series baseball games between the Giants and the Yankees early last month delighted thousands of radio and baseball fans throughout the United States, will again do the broadcasting of the first game, the Harvard-Princeton combat, and will be assisted by other members of THE HERALD staff in one or more of the other games to come. Up to a few days ago THE NEW YORK HERALD was receiving congratulations on its successful enterprise during the world series, and not a few of the congratulations expressed the hope that the radio report would be heard again next year. It will delight those sport fans to learn that they will not have to wait as long as they expected for another sport-radio report.

It is Mr. McGeehan's intention to leave not the slightest detail unmentioned. The scene outside the grounds before the game, the gathering of the thousands upon thousands in the immense stadium, the cheering of the rival undergrads, the arrival of the teams, the waging up practice, the colorful panorama, the start of the contest with its attendant excitement, and then the game itself, every play, the type of attack, how the ball is being carried, every kick, every loss, every tackle, every fumble, every everything, in fact—all these will be included in the description.

What a treat it will be to the Princeton or Harvard grad, too busy or too far from the scene of the contest to attend! What a treat to any football fan, college man or otherwise! There is something happening every minute on a football field and the listeners-in should hear a more or less continuous two and a half hour story. The report will begin promptly at 1:30 P. M. with a description of the scene and incidents leading up to the game itself, which is scheduled to start at 2 P. M.

Tune your instruments to the 400 meter wave length, radio fans, to-morrow and every Saturday the rest of the month.
